- Complete the top portion of the Mellon Foundation Graduate Study Verification Form (page 3) and submit the form to your graduate school dean at the end of each academic year of your graduate school enrollment.
- When both forms have been received and approved by Washington University in St. Louis, arrangements will be made to repay a portion of your undergraduate debt.
- Washington University will send you a confirmation notice each time a portion of your debt is paid.
- Remember that separate deferment forms must be filed directly with your lender for each year of your graduate school enrollment.

What is the official policy on undergraduate debt repayment?

A reminder: Your Mellon Foundation support provides for the repayment of a portion of your undergraduate debt while you are enrolled full time in a graduate program leading to a Ph.D. in acceptable fields of study. Only students who complete an annual survey with the Foundation are eligible (www.mmuf.org/survey).

- For each year of full-time graduate work, one-eighth of your undergraduate debt, up to $1250, can be paid by the Mellon Foundation. This is possible for four years, for a maximum of $5000.
- If you receive your Ph.D. within six years after beginning graduate work, an additional $5000 of debt can be repaid for you.
- Only your undergraduate debt through the Perkins, Stafford or Washington University loan programs is repayable. No parent loan can be repaid.

If you have any questions, please call the College of Arts & Sciences, 314-935-6800.
